

TebWeb Innovations LLC • Thomas Brunt, Owner

TebWeb Innovations LLC is the brainchild of Thomas Brunt, a nearly lifelong resident of Doylestown who has had a varied career in many aspects of television and video production, now passing 35 years. He started with the local cable company in Doylestown as a junior in high school. "I took to video production instantly, and quickly realized that it would be my career choice."

Prior to taking TebWeb Innovations full time in 2021, Thomas worked for a mobile broadcast production company, serving as a main engineer providing equipment support on some of the largest sporting events for the largest broadcasters. World Series, Super Bowls, Olympics — Thomas has worked many of them, and lots of shows in between, including game shows and live entertainment.

"Volunteering in the community is very important to me. I started helping local organizations and civic groups doing what I enjoy doing—creating video content. During the pandemic I was furloughed for several months like so many others, so I put my video production skills to use helping produce pandemic related video resources for the community through Doylestown Borough, Discover Doylestown and the Central Bucks Chamber of Commerce.

After nearly 22 years of supporting events all over North America, Thomas wanted to shift his focus back to his local community and help his clientele create their own visions using video technology.

"Being so involved in the community greatly helped TebWeb move from a part-time venture to a full-time service business. I had so many connections from different business and civic leaders in the community. What started as volunteer work began turning into paid projects, helping me realize that I can do this full-time."

Tom also supports the Doylestown Historical Society, Discover Doylestown, Doylestown at Dusk Car Show, and during the cold winter months he volunteers as staff for the local Code Blue shelter to help our homeless community.
